Members who continue down a road that attacks women's reproductive rights are being watched and they will sooner or later feel the consequences of their decisions. I've been quite impressed by female acquaintances who have never expressed particularly strong political feelings but are now coming to me with their outrage and actually making contact with their legislators. As far as I can tell, this is not a partisan issue among women I know. Women are watching and women vote and they are really beginning to keep track of who supports women's issues and who doesn't. For everyone's benefit, these bills should not pass.

Sincerely,
Cherie Giles
